War Summary of The Latest Events

The capture of Goritz Wednesday morning will enable General Cadorna to reap the fruit of the three days of sanguinary fighting that preceded the occupation of the city. The Italian official report states that on the heights west of the town the enemy's trenches and dugouts were found full of dead. The Austrians on the west side of the river abandoned in their hasty flight large quantities of munitions and war material. The number of prisoners already recorded is over ten thousand, and the official statement adds "more are coming in." The Italian engineers are hard at work throwing new bridges across the river and repairing those damaged by the Austrians.

Unofficial despatches giving details of the struggle indicate that the capture of the Isonzo bridgehead was decisive, and that little resistance was made after the occupation of the heights to the west of the town. A new idea, developed by the Italians, was the construction of an underground passage from the point at which the Italian reserves were held to within sixty feet of the enemy's first line trenches. After the attack began reinforcements were poured in steadily by the Italians through this passage without suffering the losses unavoidable in advancing over a shell-torn battlefield. The effectiveness of the Italian artillery contributed greatly to the success of the assault.

The cities of Italy are gay with bunting, and already the prophecy is heard that the fall of Goritz will be followed soon by the capture of Triest. Some of the more sanguine among the prophets find in the victory a menace later on to Venice itself. If the allies have plenty of men and an ample supply of munitions they might do worse than launch a great offensive north-easterly from Triest after that well-equipped port falls into the hands of the Italians. Vienna is a little over two hundred miles from the Adriatic, and Budapest about two hundred and fifty miles from Triest. A detour through Slavonia and Western Hungary would enable an army headed towards either capital to use a fairly level country for the advance, with few natural obstacles after the crossing of the Rivers Save and Drava. It will perhaps be well for Italy to take Triest before making arrangements to capture Vienna.

FARM LABOURERS WANTED.

The Western Provinces of Canada have experienced an acute shortage of Farm Laborers for spring seeding and summer work this year.

Even when times were normal throughout Canada moreover, it was always necessary to bring from twenty-five to thirty thousand laborers from eastern points for the harvest season.

As voluntary enlistments have been very heavy and inasmuch as a successful crop is predicted by the experts, grave fear is being felt along the lines of the Canadian Northern Railway, on account of the difficulty experienced in obtaining labor, which means steady work and good wages for all who visit in the districts served by the C.N.R.

For further particulars apply to R. E. McLEAN, or E. McLAUGHLIN Station Agent. City Agent.

will perhaps be well for Italy to take Trieste before making arrangements to capture Vienna.

The Australians, it is announced by Gen. Haig, made another gain north-west of Pozieres Wednesday on a front of 600 yards to a depth of 200. There were no other changes during the day.

The crest of the ridge at Pozieres, which enables the occupants to gain an uninterrupted view north to Bapaume, and thus to improve greatly their artillery practice, must be almost within the grasp of the British troops along the ridge. Once the summit is crossed progress towards Bapaume will be more rapid.

The Paris midnight report states that north of the Somme the French Wednesday entirely reoccupied the trenches near Hem Wood, in which the Germans had secured a footing on Tuesday night. Progress continues north of Hem Wood, where a violent action has developed to the advantage of the French troops.

On the Verdun front there was no infantry actions. The Germans on Tuesday night recaptured the Thiaumont work and still hold it. The French, on the other hand, have strengthened their grip on the village of Fleury. The struggle for the bit of shell-ploughed land on which the fortification of Thiaumont stood has become almost as terrible as that which raged around Fort Douaumont in the early part of the Verdun campaign. The Germans had been in possession of Thiaumont for some weeks, when, last Friday, the French recaptured it by assault. In the afternoon the Germans again took the position, only to be driven out once more during the night. They bombarded the work with terrific fury, and on Monday night recaptured it. On Tuesday the French once again gained most of the position, and on Tuesday night lost their foothold. The loss in killed and wounded during the battles for Thiaumont must have totalled many thousands. The most significant feature of the situation at Verdun is that during the past five months the Germans have advanced but little over a mile on the Douaumont and Vaux ridges, and are still a mile away from the main French defences known as the Souville lines.

Petrograd admits the truth of a Turkish report that Mush and Bitlis two important towns in the region of Armenia lying west of Lake Van, have been recaptured by the Turks. Great mountain ranges separate Mush from Erzerum, which is 80 miles due north, and the Turks can hardly hope

BREMEN SUNK, GERMANS ADMIT

Berne, Aug. 8th—The Berlin Tageblatt announces that the German submarine Bremen, which was to have arrived at an American port, has been sunk through an accident to her machinery, according to a despatch received here this afternoon.

Columbus, O., Aug. 8th—That the second German merchant submarine, the Bremen, is in the possession of the French navy is the information received by Lieut. J. G. McElroy, United States army officer, from a relative in the British army. Lieut.
McElroy is stationed here with the Ohio National Guard. He has just received a letter from this relative, who is now in Folkstone. The letter declares that the Bremen was captured on its outward trip to the United States.

It has been reported on various occasions that the Bremen had been captured by the British.

ENEMY NOW ADMITS BRITISH EFFICIENCY

Rotterdam, Aug. 7.—Major Morabt,
the famous German military critic,
writes as follows in The Berliner Volks Zeitung:

"The life of France depends upon Britain taking a further part in the war, and whether it is still prepared to shed more blood.

"Britain is apparently determined to set the future of the war on this card. First Lord of the Admiralty Arthur Balfour affirms that an unbroken stream of men and munitions is being carried across the Channel.
For us this is a reminder that we must, as far as possible, break this undisturbed communication between Britain and France. Only when we have carried out our threat against British communication with the continent can we reckon upon relief on the Somme.

"In the Somme district the British heavy guns spit day and night on our trenches, positions, and every available place of communication for our trenches, with such fury as was never before expected. Although hundreds of thousands of projectiles explode without effect, there still remain zones of fire the horrors of which can only be imagined by those who have been there."

Report Exaggerated.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—Taken as a whole, the reports wired in by crop representatives of the Manitoba Government go far to relieve anxiety about rust and heat damage. Centre and Northern Manitoba have escaped damage entirely, and should harvest not less than a good average crop. Even in several of the southern districts known to be affected by black rust it is claimed that there will be a return of 12 to 15 bushels and more.

J. D. Baskerville, right on the international boundary, says that where he looked for a 30-bushel crop he now cuts down to half that, and does not expect his district to average as much, this being one of the worst sections in the Red River valley, right across from North Dakota. It is doubtful whether the crop in this rich valley between Morris and the boundary will average over ten bushels.

KING RENEWS PLEDGE.

Message to Allied Rulers Marks Anniversary of War.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—King George sent the following message to the sovereigns and heads of the allied States, dated Aug. 8, midnight:

"On this day, the second anniversary of the commencement of the great conflict in which my country and her gallant allies are engaged, I desire to convey to you my steadfast resolution to prosecute the war until our united efforts have attained the objects for which we in common have taken up arms.

"I feel assured that you are in accord with me in the determination that the sacrifices which our valiant troops have so nobly made shall not have been offered in vain, and that the liberties for which they are fighting shall be fully guaranteed and secured.

"GEORGE R. I."

Simultaneously the King sent a message to the King of the Belgians as follows:

"On this, the second anniversary of the day my country took up arms to resist the violation of the neutrality of Belgium, I desire to assure your Majesty of my confidence that the united efforts of the Allies will liberate Belgium from the oppression of her aggressors and restore her to the full enjoyment of national and economic independence.

"I also desire to convey to your Majesty my deep sympathy in the grievous trials to which Belgium has been so unjustly subjected, and which she has borne with such admirable fortitude.

FRENCH ARE GAINING

British Have Repelled Five German Counter-Attacks.

Enemy Have Been Striving Desperately to Develop a Counter-Offensive Against the British, but Without Success — Australians Held Out Against Heavy Attacks of Bavarian and Saxon Troops.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Five determined counter-attacks by the Germans were beaten back by the British in the Pozieres sector Monday, while on both the Somme and Meuse the French continued to make gains.

An entire line of German defences on a half-mile front from the wood north of Hem to the Somme was captured in a spectacular assault by General Foch's troops.

On the Verdun front Gen. Nivelle threw his forces forward in new attacks in which a further gain was registered south of the Thiaumont work and more fortified houses in Fleury were taken.

The Germans for more than 18 hours have been striving desperately to develop a counter-offensive against the British, but all their attempts have met with failure. Preceding the five furious attacks Monday numerous attacks were made Sunday night to penetrate the British trenches east of Pozieres. General Haig Monday night reported that his troops held all the ground gained in Sunday's attacks.

A despatch to The Daily News, dated North of France, says: "The Germans Sunday furiously counter-attacked positions taken the day before by the British north of Pozieres. An order had been given to the units in the Pozieres sector to retake from the British, at whatever cost, Hill 160, as shown by the order of the day issued by General von Buelow and read to the troops Sunday. A number of copies of the order were taken from prisoners. Two divisions participated in the heavy attack.

"The Australians again covered themselves with glory. One regiment which occupied advanced trenches to the left of the Bapaume road on the edge of the plateau, gave proof of magnificent heroism in resisting the assaults there of Bavarian and Saxon regiments, holding out stoically under a deluge of shot and shell, and yielding not an inch of ground. The regiment sustained appreciable losses, but its courageous resistance enabled the British commander to make the necessary dispositions to check the German counter-offensive.

"All enemy attacks against Hill 160 and the Pozieres mill were repulsed, the enemy sustaining serious losses. The Germans sent forward three strong columns of one battalion each. The British artillery immediately began a barricading fire of remarkable precision, which cut down the assailants' ranks, forcing them to a precipitate retreat. Profiting by the confusion of their adversaries, the British, with much presence of mind, vigorously attacked the Germans north-west of Pozieres. Australians and troops from the County of Kent charged and at the

TAX ON ALIE BONDS.

Canada Will Penalize Investments in Foreign Securities.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—In view of the large purchases made in Canada of Anglo-French and other Government bonds issued in the United States and the serious effect which the continua- tion of such purchases will have upon the exchange situation between Can- ada and the United States, it is now regarded here as certain that at the next session legislation will be intro- duced imposing special income taxa- tion upon all non-Canadian securities held by Canadians.

The effect of such legislation, which will be along lines somewhat similar to that in force in England, and enacted for the same purpose, will cause the liquidation of the se- curities specially taxed. This liqui- dation will tend to benefit the ex- change situation and preserve the Canadian market for purely Cana- dian issues. There is abundance of money in the United States to take up all these securities, the proceeds of which have been expended in the United States.

Italy Terminates Treaty.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—A de- spatch to The Handelsblad from Ber- lin says Italy has given notice to Germany of the termination of the German-Italian commercial treaty of 1891, which would have expired at the end of 1917.

A despatch from Paris quoted The Petit Parisien as saying it understood that Italy had denounced the com- mercial treaty with Germany, there- by leaving the way clear for a de- claration of hostilities between Italy and Germany. The newspaper said also that the existence of the treaty was the only reason which had pre- vented Germany from declaring war on Italy.

Brussels Refuses to Pay Fine.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The city of Brussels has refused to pay the fine of 5,000,000 marks imposed by the Germans in consequence of the de- monstration which took place in the Belgian capital on July 21, the na- tional fete day, says a despatch from The Hague to the Exchange Tele- graph Company. A serious crisis is expected.

Acting Burgomaster Lemounier, the despatch adds, has sent a let- ter to Gen. von Bissing, the Ger- man Governor of Belgium, flatly de- clining to pay the fine. He says it was imposed on the public because of its patriotic sentiment, and there- fore is illegal and inadmissible.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. the Germans north-west of Pozieres. Australians and troops from the County of Kent charged and at the point of the bayonet captured two lines of trenches. In all, they made progress of about 200 metres in the direction of Martinpuich."

On the Verdun front during Sun- day night the Germans also deter- minedly launched attack after at- tack, only to be repulsed by the French barrier and machine-gun fire. Both at Thiaumont and in the Vaux- Chapitre woods the German infantry was sent forward after strong artill- ery preparations, only to be driven back without having gained a foot of ground.

During Monday the French and British captured a number of Ger- man prisoners and took 15 machine guns.

Three more German aeroplanes have been shot down, according to a Paris statement. French bombarding squadrons during Sunday night car- ried out extensive operations behind the German front, and Berlin admits some damage was done to the great fortress of Metz by the French bom- bardment.

On the Somme front French avi- ators engaged in numerous combats. Three German machines were brought down, one near Roiglise, the second in the vicinity of Omiescourt, the third north of Nesle. Three other enemy machines were damaged seri- ously and compelled to land behind their own lines. Finally, two captive balloons were destroyed. On the night of August 6-7 French aerial squadrons carried out the following operations successfully: Twenty bombs were dropped on the railway station at Metz-Sablons, 30 on the railway station at Thionville; 25 on factories at Rombach, north of Metz, and 12 on military camp near Elain. "Must Retake, Whatever the Cost."

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The following order of the day was issued by Gen. von Buelow before the German drive on the British positions Sun- day: "We must at whatever price regain possession of the Pozieres plateau, which if it remains in the hands of the English would give them a precious advantage. Attacks will be led by successive waves, sepa- rated by a distance of 80 metres. Troops which first gain footing on the plateau must remain there and await necessary reinforcements at whatever loss there may be. Any of- ficer or man who fails to resist, even unto death on the conquered ground, will be summoned immediately be- fore a courtmartial."

Serious Oversight.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds today. A feature of the trade was the good demand from pack- ers for canning cattle, and an active trade was done in this line. Choice butcher steers were very scarce.

The trade in sheep and lambs was ac- tive, there being a good demand from both butchers and packers, but the un- derdone to the market continues easy and prices have a downward tendency. Demand for calves was fairly good. The tone of the market for hogs was strong, and prices scored a further advance of 25c to 50c per 100 pounds.

Turkish Army Smashed.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The most re- cent attempt of the Turks to reach the Suez Canal has proved an even greater failure than the earlier re- ports indicated. Lieut.-General Sir Archibald James Murray, command- er of the British troops in Egypt, re- ports Monday that, besides taking more than 3,000 prisoners in the battle with the Turks at Romani, his forces inflicted very heavy losses on them, and had continued the pursuit of the retreating troops for 18 miles, clearing the Turks from the Katia Basin.

In connec- tion with the exact form of that as- sistance, however, the Government is still awaiting a report from Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Minister of Lands, For- ests, and Mines in the Ontario Gov- ernment, who has gone up to the north country to investigate the situ- ation and ascertain its needs.

TEUTONS STIFF

Slight Halt Occurs in Volhynia.

Gen. von Linsingen Delivered Counter Blow With Hours of News That von Burg is Given Command of Northern Battle Line—Teutons to Fight for Lives.

LONDON, Aug 8.—For the first time since the initiation of Brusiloff's offensive on the Russian front, the Teutons have suffered a check. Friday night's War Office statement admitted that Muscovite forces attacking Volhynian railway centred from the west were driven from the village of Rudka-Nirvan, ten miles from Kovel, and ordered to retire between 400 yards to the east.

This first successful counter-attack by Gen. von Linsingen came less than twelve hours after the official bulletin from Berlin. The news that Field Marshal von Hindenburg had been placed in command of the entire battle front in the east. The Teutons succeeded in ushering in a huge offensive with a view to capturing four cities now seriously threatened by the Russians: Kovel and Volhynski in Volhynia, capital of Galicia, and Stanislaw in the south-eastern part of Poland.

Rudka-Nirvan is a small village situated on the Stavok River, a tributary of the Stokhod. It was at this point, between Kovel-Sarny and Kovel-Rudka, that the Russians suffered their heaviest defeat. The Teutons attacked from three sides, "delivering a crushing counter-attack," in the words of the Petrograd statement.

A violent battle is raging at Brody, on the Rivers I. Graberki, where the Russians are trying to break through the German lines. Petrograd asserts that General Sakharoff, in command of the Russian forces, is fighting on this front, took a heavy loss. "Gen. Sakharoff is in hot fighting," the Russian statement says.

Friday's Austrian official statement gives no details of fighting, merely saying the Russians were repulsed near Zolochiv.

Report Exaggerated.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—Taken as a whole, the reports wired in by crop representatives of the Manitoba Government go far to relieve anxiety about rust and heat damage. Centre and Northern Manitoba have escaped damage entirely, and should harvest not less than a good average crop.
Even in several of the southern districts known to be affected by black rust it is claimed that there will be a return of 12 to 15 bushels and more.

J. D. Baskerville, right on the in-he now cuts down to half that, and does not expect his district to average as much, this being one of the worst sections in the Red River val-

It is doubtful whether the crop in this rich valley between Morris and the boundary will average over ten bushels.

"On this day, the second anniver- sary of the commencement of the great conflict in which my country and her gallant allies are engaged, I desire to convey to you my stead- fast resolution to prosecute the war until our united efforts have attained the objects for which we in common have taken up arms.

"I feel assured that you are in ac- cord with me in the determination that the sacrifices which our valiant troops have so nobly made shall not have been offered in vain, and that the liberties for which they are fight- ing shall be fully guaranteed and secured.

GOVERNOR OF MANITOBA.

Sir James Aikins Secures Coveted Post in Western Province.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Lieut.-Col. Sir James Albert Manning Aikins has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. He succeeds Sir Doug- las Colin Cameron, whose term of office expired some time ago.

Sir James Aikins was born in Peel County in 1851, educated at Toronto University, and was admitted to the bar. From 1879 until 1896 he was counsel for the Justice Department; in 1880 he was one of the Royal Commissioners to investigate and re- port upon the administration of jus- tice in the North-West Territories, and in 1900 was appointed counsel for the Manitoba Government. He has been solicitor for the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, and for many large corporations and banks, loan companies, etc., in Western Canada, and is also a director of many of them. He was elected for the Federal constituency of Brandon in 1911, but withdrew from Domi- nion politics last year, when the Man- itoba Provincial elections were held. In becoming Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba Sir James holds a position which was once filled by his father, Hon. James Cox Aikins, in 1882.

British Have Repelled Five Ger- man Counter-Attacks.

Enemy Have Been Striving Desper- ately to Develop a Counter-Offen- sive Against the British, but Without Success — Australians Held Out Against Heavy Attacks of Bavarian and Saxon Troops.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Five deter- mined counter-attacks by the Ger- mans were beaten back by the Brit- ish in the Pozieres sector Monday, while on both the Somme and Meuse the French continued to make gains.

An entire line of German defences on a half-mile front from the wood north of Hem to the Somme was cap- tured in a spectacular assault by General Foch's troops.

On the Verdun front Gen. Nivelle threw his forces forward in new at- tacks in which a further gain was reg- istered south of the Thiaumont work and more fortified houses in Fleury were taken.

The Germans for more than 18 hours have been striving desperately to develop a counter-offensive against the British, but all their attempts have met with failure. Preceding the five furious attacks Monday num- erous attacks were made Sunday night to penetrate the British trench- es east of Pozieres. General Haig Monday night reported that his troops held all the ground gained in Sunday's attacks.

A despatch to The Daily News, dated North of France, says: "The Germans Sunday furiously counter- attacked positions taken the day be- fore by the British north of Pozieres. An order had been given to the units in the Pozieres sector to retake from the British, at whatever cost, Hill 160, as shown by the order of the day issued by General von Buelow and read to the troops Sunday. A number of copies of the order were taken from prisoners. Two divisions participated in the heavy attack.

"The Australians again covered themselves with glory. One regi- ment which occupied advanced trenches to the left of the Bapaume road on the edge of the plateau, gave proof of magnificent heroism in re- sisting the assaults there of Bavarian and Saxon regiments, holding out stoically under a deluge of shot and shell, and yielding not an inch of ground. The regiment sustained ap- preciable losses, but its courageous resistance enabled the British com- mander to make the necessary dis- positions to check the German counter-offensive.

"All enemy attacks against Hill 160 and the Pozieres mill were re- pulsive, the enemy sustaining serious losses. The Germans sent forward three strong columns of one battal- ion each. The British artillery im- mediately began a barricading fire of remarkable precision, which cut down the assailants' ranks, forcing them to a precipitate retreat. Profit- ing by the confusion of their adver- saries, the British, with much pres- ence of mind, vigorously attacked the Germans north-west of Pozieres. Australians and troops from the County of Kent charged and at the point of the bayonet captured two

TALK ON ALLE KHONGS.

Canada Will Penalize Investments in Foreign Securities.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—In view of the large purchases made in Canada of Anglo-French and other Government bonds issued in the United States and the serious effect which the continuation of such purchases will have upon the exchange situation between Canada and the United States, it is now regarded here as certain that at the next session legislation will be introduced imposing special income taxation upon all non-Canadian securities held by Canadians.

The effect of such legislation, which will be along lines somewhat similar to that in force in England, and enacted for the same purpose, will cause the liquidation of the securities specially taxed. This liquidation will tend to benefit the exchange situation and preserve the Canadian market for purely Canadian issues. There is abundance of money in the United States to take up all these securities, the proceeds of which have been expended in the United States.

Italy Terminates Treaty.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—A despatch to The Handelsblad from Berlin says Italy has given notice to Germany of the termination of the German-Italian commercial treaty of 1891, which would have expired at the end of 1917.

A despatch from Paris quoted The Petit Parisien as saying it understood that Italy had denounced the commercial treaty with Germany, thereby leaving the way clear for a declaration of hostilities between Italy and Germany. The newspaper said also that the existence of the treaty was the only reason which had prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy.

Brussels Refuses to Pay Fine.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The city of Brussels has refused to pay the fine of 5,000,000 marks imposed by the Germans in consequence of the demonstration which took place in the Belgian capital on July 21, the national fete day, says a despatch from The Hague to the Exchange Telegraph Company. A serious crisis is expected.

Acting Burgomaster Lemounier, the despatch adds, has sent a letter to Gen. von Bissing, the German Governor of Belgium, flatly declining to pay the fine. He says it was imposed on the public because of its patriotic sentiment, and therefore is illegal and inadmissible.

the Germans north-west of Pozieres. Australians and troops from the County of Kent charged and at the point of the bayonet captured two lines of trenches. In all, they made progress of about 200 metres in the direction of Martinpuich."

On the Verdun front during Sunday night the Germans also determinedly launched attack after attack, only to be repulsed by the French barrier and machine-gun fire. Both at Thiaumont and in the Vaux-Chapitre woods the German infantry was sent forward after strong artillery preparations, only to be driven back without having gained a foot of ground.

During Monday the French and British captured a number of German prisoners and took 15 machine guns.

Three more German aeroplanes have been shot down, according to a Paris statement. French bombarding squadrons during Sunday night carried out extensive operations behind the German front, and Berlin admits some damage was done to the great fortress of Metz by the French bombardment.

On the Somme front French aviators engaged in numerous combats. Three German machines were brought down, one near Roiglise, the second in the vicinity of Omiescourt, the third north of Nesle. Three other enemy machines were damaged seriously and compelled to land behind their own lines. Finally, two captive balloons were destroyed. On the night of August 6-7 French aerial squadrons carried out the following operations successfully: Twenty bombs were dropped on the railway station at Metz-Sablons, 30 on the railway station at Thionville; 25 on factories at Rombach, north of Metz, and 12 on military camp near Etain. "Must Retake, Whatever the Cost."

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The following order of the day was issued by Gen. von Buelow before the German drive on the British positions Sunday: "We must at whatever price regain possession of the Pozieres plateau, which if it remains in the hands of the English would give them a precious advantage. Attacks will be led by successive waves, separated by a distance of 80 metres. Troops which first gain footing on the plateau must remain there and await necessary reinforcements at whatever loss there may be. Any officer or man who fails to resist, even unto death on the conquered ground, will be summoned immediately before a courtmartial."

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds today. A feature of the trade was the good demand from packers for canning cattle, and an active trade was done in this line. Choice butcher steers were very scarce.

The trade in sheep and lambs was active, there being a good demand from both butchers and packers, but the undertone to the market continues easy and prices have a downward tendency. Demand for calves was fairly good. The tone of the market for hogs was strong, and prices scored a further advance of 25c to 50c per 100 pounds.

Turkish Army Smashed.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The most recent attempt of the Turks to reach the Suez Canal has proved an even greater failure than the earlier reports indicated. Lieut.-General Sir Archibald James Murray, commander of the British troops in Egypt, reports Monday that, besides taking more than 3,000 prisoners in the battle with the Turks at Romani, his forces inflicted very heavy losses on them, and had continued the pursuit of the retreating troops for 18 miles, clearing the Turks from the Katia Basin.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The Dominion Government will contribute some substantial form of assistance to the sufferers from the Northern Ontario bush fires of last week. In connection with the exact form of that assistance, however, the Government is still awaiting a report from Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests, and Mines in the Ontario Government, who has gone up to the north country to investigate the situation and ascertain its needs.

Laureate of the Lakes.

William Wilfred Campbell, popularly known as "The Laureate of the Lakes," is both a dramatic and lyric poet and a novelist. He was born at Berlin, Ont., in 1861, receiving his education at Toronto University and Cambridge, Mass. In 1906 he received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Aberdeen University. He was ordained in the Episcopal Church and was for a time rector of St. Stephens, N. B. In 1891 he entered the Civil Service at Ottawa, and for some years has been attached to the Dominion Archives Bureau with Dr. Doughty. He has written a great deal of verse for English, Canadian, and American magazines, his poem "The Mother" being placed by the Chicago Inter-Ocean among the gems of English literature. The same poem was referred to in Parliament in terms of commendation by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He was presented to King Edward in 1906, and was present at the coronation in 1911. Among his best-known works are: Lake Lyrics (1899), The Dread Voyage, poems (1893), Mordred and Hildebrand, tragedies (1895), Political Tragedies (1908), Beyond the Hills of Dream, poems (1899), Collected Verse, Sagas of Vaster Britain (1906), Ian of the Orcaes, historical novel (1906), Canada (in collaboration with T. C. Martin (1907), A Beautiful Rebel, historical novel (1909), The Canadian Lake Region (1910). The Scottish-American, reviewing the work of Dr. Campbell, said that as a dramatic poet he stands alone, supreme in his generation.

EXPORTS HAVE GROWN.

Nearly One Hundred Million Added to Dominion's Output.

A decrease of $93,001,317 in imports and an increase of $91,283,933 in exports for the twelve months ended October is shown in a statement published by the Department of Trade and Commerce. These figures do not take into account the movement of gold, which shows a very heavy increase in the export column.

Imports for the twelve months totalled $421,584,000, of which goods to the value of $72,320 came from Great Britain, a drop of $32,700,000 in the imports of British goods. Imports from the United States amounted to $346,570,000, or $74,505,000 less than in the previous twelve months. Exports of merchandise totalled $550,548,000, including $41,455,829 of foreign produce. Exports to Great Britain amounted to $277,527,000, an increase of $73,000,000. To the United States, Canada sold goods to the value of $314,118,000, a rise of nearly $100,000,000. Imports from France dropped from $11,567,000 to $5,700,000, but exports to France increased from $8,940,000 to $27,620,000. To Belgium, Canada sent supplies of various kinds to the amount of nearly a million dollars.

The statement shows that $20,000,000 worth of hams and bacons, or about three times as much as in the previous year, went to Great Britain. It shows also that imports of tea amounted to $8,346,000, a 30 per cent. increase.

Exports of manufactures rose to $130,350,00, an increase of $65,000,000.

MONEY IN SALONIKI.

Why the Merest Glimpse of It Will Produce a Near Riot.

In normal times, if Saloniki is ever normal, she has a population of 120,000, and every one of those 120,000 is personally interested in any one else who engages or may be about to engage in a money transaction. In New York if a horse falls down there is at once an audience of a dozen persons. In Saloniki the downfall of a horse is nobody's business, but a copper coin changing hands is everybody's. Of this local characteristic John T. McCutcheon and I made a careful study, and the result of our investigations produced certain statistics.

If in Saloniki you buy a newspaper from a newsboy, of the persons passing two will stop; if at an open shop you buy a package of cigarettes five people will look over your shoulders; if you pay your cab driver his fare you block the sidewalk, and if you try to change a 100 franc note you cause a riot. In each block there are nearly a half dozen money changers. They sit in little shops as narrow as a doorway, and in front of them is a showcase filled with all the moneys of the world.

It is not alone the sight of your 100 franc note that enchants the crowd. That collects the crowd, but what holds the crowd is that it knows there are twenty different kinds of money, all current in Saloniki, into which your note can be changed. And they know the money changer knows that and that you do not. So each man advises you—not because he does not want to see you cheated (between you and the money changer he is neutral), but because he can no more keep out of a money deal than can a fly pass a sugar bowl.

The men on the outskirts of the crowd ask, "What does he offer?"

The lucky ones in the front row seats call back. "A hundred een drachmas." The rear row with indignation: "It is rob! is because he changes his Venizelos street!" "He is money changer's rent!" "In quarter they are giving nine! is too lazy to walk two m drachma!" "Then let him Greek Papanastassion!"—Ric ding Davis in Scribner's.

What Do You Know About The Maxwell Car

THIS is the time of the year when more people are considering the question of "what car to buy" than at any other time of the year.

This community has its full share of people who will soon be driving their first car or a new car to replace the old one.

Now, we know that we are going to sell Maxwell Cars to a great many of these people—depending upon how many we are able to acquaint with the merits of the Maxwell.

The generous value offered in the car is so evident—its past record is so full of good performance—owners speak so well of it—that when the buyer knows these things, he is eager to buy a Maxwell.

In order to tell as many people as possible about the merits of the Maxwell Car we are going to spend a lot of money in the next few weeks in this paper advertising Maxwell merits to those who do not know them.

The reason—we want to sell as many Maxwells as possible this season. Our future allotments will depend upon how many Maxwells we sell now.

You may know that the Maxwell market is a buyer's market, not a seller's market—broadly speaking. The demand for Maxwells the country over is greater than the supply.

For this reason cars are allotted to dealers at the factory according to the size of the business.

We want to make a showing and be in position to get a generous allotment of Maxwells hereafter. Because the more Maxwells are in any community, the greater is the future of the Maxwell business. We realize the opportunity to do an ever-increasing Maxwell business.

This is only the first of the several notices we are going to print—a few days apart—concerning the Maxwell Car. But we don't expect to adequately present Maxwell merits in printed words alone.

If you are one who is going to buy a Maxwell, you will find it decidedly to your advantage to find out all you can about the Maxwell before placing your order.

Come in and talk it over with us and we will demonstrate the car to you. Then, don't rely on printed word alone, but ask those who now own Maxwells.

Get "posted" about the Maxwell and you will realize more satisfaction and get more "value received" for your motor car money than before.

And we are just as willing to have you compare other cars just as fully as you do our Maxwells. Maxwell will not suffer by the comparison.

Why not start your Maxwell investment today?

Business Men the Local

They Excel as Advertis-

Good in the Country.

The following article is written by Arthur Brisbane of the New York
Evening Journal:

We have more than once called the attention of business men and citizens in general to the important work that is done by the editors of the SMALL-ER NEWSPAPERS and to the great value of those newspapers AS ADVER-TISING MEDIUMS.

IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO

IMPOSSIBLE AT LEAST TO KEEP

WERE NOT FOR THE THOUSANDS OF NEWSPAPER EDITORS SCAT-TERED THROUGHOUT THE LAND,

ER AND AN OBSERVER, A VIGI-LANT POLICEMAN IN POLITICS

Wherever two railroads cross and there is a town or village, there is, fortunately for the country, a local editor.

The editor WATCHES THE TWO RAILROADS. HE WATCHES THE AFFAIRS OF HIS TOWNSHIP, COUNTY, PROVINCE AND DOMIN-ION.

He talks daily or weekly to his fellow citizens concerning affairs that most vitally interest them. He is for them AN EYE THAT DOES NOT SLEEP, a man alert and devoted to those that are his constituents.

If the railroad crossing kills too many, if the railroads combine to charge too much or serve too poorly, if the judge, governor or mayor seems more of a railroad official than a people's official, the editor is there to tell about it.

The local editor speaks to his readers AS ONE FRIEND SPEAKS TO ANOTHER.

They know him by sight. They know his record. They know the high fight that he has made and is making. They know for how small a reward he renders efficient, unselfish service. AND A WORD from him means more than MANY COLUMNS from some anonymous and unknown
"editor of the big city."

A man writing fearlessly in some temptations and attractions of the

would MAKE OF EVERY COUNTRY

Very few realize what it means when a man undertakes the publication of a daily or a weekly newspaper in a small place.

The editor risks everything, poverty, bankruptcy, indifference of the public, and at best his reward can be very small.

Many of us, of course, would feel happier if we could begin our work with a life pension that would free us from all care ever afterward. But the country editor goes to work with
NO PENSION AND NO GUARANTY.
He asks no pension, no cash in advance, only FAIR PLAY AND A

Public men know the power of the local editor and of the local newspaper. It is a pity that the BUSI-NESS MEN OF THE COUNTRY ARE IGNORANT OF THAT POWER.

Every individual, every newspaper,
every concern of every sort in Canada,
DEPENDS ON THE GENERAL PROSPERITY AND AVERAGE IN-TELLIGENCE OF THE COUNTRY.

The man who has something really worth while to advertise could, if he would use the local newspapers intelligently, multiply his sales by ten,
MAKE HIMSELF KNOWN TO MIL-LIONS that do not now know him and put himself at the head of his line of competition.

If the automobile manufacturers who attract attention just at this moment would put their advertising intelligently in the local newspapers, paying a good, fair rate and offering good value, they could very soon increase the output of automobiles.

The smallest of the country newspapers has among its readers one or five or ten or a hundred men that could be made to buy a car now and will buy one sooner or later. Some intelligent automobile manufacturer with the right kind of product will realize this and sell tens of thousands of cars through the local newspapers before his competitors know what has happened.

Don't Whip a Child In Anger.

It is absurd to whip a child who is overcome by anger. The best thing to do is to let him alone and let his passion wear itself out. If he could be taken before the anger gets the upper hand of him he might be controlled.

What the parent should do is to study the things which will arouse the child's anger and then avoid these things. It is the height of folly for a parent to excite anger in a child and then try to control it by punishment.
It is worse than folly; it is brutal and is likely to ruin the child.—Mother's

BULGARS NEARS BREAK WITH FOE

Providence, R.I., Aug. 7th—The Providence Journal will print the following cable to-morrow morning from London: In the constant daily struggle on both the eastern and western fronts the Balkan situation has apparently been overlooked, although it is to-day the one element in the war which is engaging the vital and hourly attention of the Ministries of Great Britain and every country of Europe. The following statement is the essential part of a declaration made to me yesterday by a prominent official of the British War Office:

"There is now collected in and about the district of Saloniki a splendidly equipped army of 680,000 British, French and Serbian troops. Fully eighty per cent. of these troops are seasoned veterans. There have been many alleged explanations of the reason why this large and powerful fighting force has not taken part in the combined drive that has been in progress along the various fronts continuously for the past month. The reason is that Great Britain and France want to make no move that will bring them into a clash with Bulgarian troops at this time. It is very probable, indeed, that within the next few weeks Bulgaria will again shift her allegiance and declare her affiliation with Russia or withdraw from the Teutonic alliance.

"This vitally important part, coupled with the exact knowledge now held by the British Government that Roumania is heart and soul with the allies, and will come in at the moment when they give the word, are the two outstanding developments of to-day which are causing more concern to all the fighting powers than the present military moves.

BULGARS IGNORE THEIR KING

"Bulgarian troops, as far as can be ascertained, have been withdrawn from every line where they have been fighting with their Teutonic allies. The orders for the withdrawals are declared to have come from the War Office at Sofia, without any attempt to confer with King Ferdinand in advance.

"The elimination of Sazanoff from the Russian Ministry has taken away the last barrier to Roumania's decision to join the allies. It is understood on authority which I am not able to quote, but which is indisputable, that the entire territory of Bessarabia from Leova at the Roumanian border east to the mouth of the Dniester on the Black sea and along fifty miles of the Black Sea coast line back to the mouth of the Danube on the Roumanian border, is to be ceded by Russia to Roumania, and that Roumania will at once place 450,000 troops fully equipped at the service of the allies for operations either against Bulgaria or in conjunction with Bulgaria if the latter comes in.

The great mass of the Bulgarian people, never in favor of the break with Russia, have apparently at last made themselves heard to some purpose. King Ferdinand has been away from his capital since the fifth day of June, and is either in Berlin or in the train of the German Emperor. Official advices from Sofia from British agents there declare that Ferdinand will not return to that city until

SUSPENDED ANIMAL

Life That Looks Like Real
Revives After Many Months

One of the most extraordinary feats of life is a cold common among the lower animals known as anabiosis, or suspension. The creature is so ances dead. The most refined of observation cannot detect life. The blood has ceased. The nerves no longer respond to stimulation. There is neither elimination nor sensation. The state may last a long time. The proper conditions the creature come to life again.

The lower we go in the scale the more pronounced is this neither life nor death.

Some remarkable experiments conducted by E. Shultz and A. Petrograd are described by the correspondent of the Scientific American. The experimenters dried worms till they were as thin as strips, then cut them into pieces. When placed in water they swelled to their normal proportions and the pieces of worm resumed life just as do those of any animal is cut up.

They took some threadworms and microbes and dried them thoroughly, kept them thus for months, then locked them in a tight box from which all air was removed and through which only pure hydrogen flowed. Thus they were not but effectually deprived of life. Yet on being moistened they revived again quickly. Strange to say those that had been locked in a hydrogen chamber revived in minutes, while those that had been dried needed forty minutes.

ENEMY WILL NOT OCCUPY VERDUN

(By Senator Chas. Humbert)

Paris, Aug. 7th—I have completed my third visit to Verdun since the battle began. The leaders, as well as the soldiers, still declare that the Germans will not get the fortress. They are aware that the fight is not ended and that the enemy is still formidable, but our troops are more than confident that as long as munitions and supplies continue to increase they will accomplish their task.

A highly-placed officer tells me that Germany has not withdrawn a single man from the Crown Prince's army for the Somme front nor scarcely diminished the strength of her artillery before Verdun, but she no longer throws fresh divisions into the battle, and appears to be more careful in the expenditure of shells.

The spirit of the German troops are lower. We are taking more prisoners, and there are deserters, some of whom declare that they were promised that the battle would end by July 31st.

I witnessed the battle from one of the forts. Those who think the war is almost ended should see the frightful carnage and the horror of the battlefield whereon the maddened strength of two nations clashes.

Billion Dollar Crop Expected

After a thorough canvass of various points throughout Western Canada, Dr. McGill of the Dominion Grain Commission, is quoted in Calgary as saying that Alberta would have a crop as good as last year, that the Dominion would have a billion dollar grain crop and that the grain crop of the three prairie provinces would be little, if any, behind that of last year.

"The country, as a whole, never looked better than it does at present," said Dr. McGill. "The weather was made to order, as you might say, and I am of the opinion that this year's harvest will be another wonderful one."

Those who contemplate going west will do well to remember that the most fertile districts in Western Canada are served by the lines of the C. N.R., and that this season they can travel from their home districts to destination, Canadian Northern all the way.

Arrangements have been made whereby passengers may travel in comfort, Colonist and lunch counter cars being a feature.

The first of these excursions will be run in August, the date will be announced later.

the train of the German Emperor. Official advices from Sofia from British agents there declare that Ferdinand will not return to that city until the close of the war, and that he is fully convinced that his people will join hands with Russia in the near future.

"This condition is being rapidly brought to a head by the attitude of Roumania and also by the tremendous effect of the recent German and Austrian defeats, and the unlooked for and rapid advance of the Russian troops."

FRANCE IS VERY GREEN.

Every Possible Shade Is Shown In Its Amazing Vegetation.

It might fairly be said that the general impression France as a whole leaves upon the beholder is—green. Perpetually moist of climate—except in the south—endowed with heavy and continuous rainfalls and having a temperature which is astonishingly even year in and year out, the country is like an enormous hothouse.

The result is a study in greens of every conceivable and inconceivable shade. Verdure and foliage range from greens that are gray or black to greens that are hardly more than yellow. From the hardy pastures high upon the sides of the towering Pelvoux range, thousands of feet above the sea, to the cacti and agaves and olives that grow at the water's edge the verdant nuances are a revelation in rural coloring.

But France is not all green either. That is only the background, the filler, as it were, for a warm toned picture full of high lights, touched with the gold of grain, the ruddy tiles of ancient roofs, the fiery spatter of poppies, the tawny flood of a river or the steely thread of a brook, and on the glistening southern shore, with cliffs as red as any soil New Jersey boasts, water like melted sapphires, villas covered with majolica tiles that make the beholder rub his eyes and wonder if he is dreaming the amazing ineffectualities of style and color that strive to but cannot shatter the harmony of creation.—National Geographic Magazine.

A Miniature Holland.

England has a Holland in miniature near the mouth of the Thames. Canvey Island, beloved of holiday makers, was until three centuries ago almost submerged, but in 1623 a Dutch baker named Croppenburgh erected a high sea wall and cut drains, which converted it into rich and arable land. Many of the Dutch workmen engaged in the work settled on the reclaimed land, and the Dutch aspect of the island is preserved until this day.—London Chronicle.

GAVE LIFE FOR BLIND.

Sir Frederick Fraser Has Built Up a Great Institution.

Charles Frederick Fraser was born in Windsor, Nova Scotia, in the year 1850, his father being the late Dr.
Fraser, M.D., the well-known and beloved physician of the countryside.

When a boy of six, while whittling with a penknife, he injured his right eye, and though every precaution that medical skill could suggest was taken to prevent the injury from becoming permanent, he finally lost his sight. Total blindness, however, fortunately, did not occur until he had gone to school for eight years to one of the best masters of the period, and although at great disadvantage, he was prepared to take the matricula-tion examinations and enter college.
Finding that his sight was rapidly leaving him, his father sent him to the Perkins School for the Blind at Boston.

He was twenty-one years of age
when he graduated from the Perkins School. It was then he was offered the position of Principal of the Halifax School for the Blind, which had only been opened a short time, and was in a struggling position. He declined. He looked forward to a business career.

Two years passed, but he had not as yet engaged in business. He kept quietly pursuing his studies. In the meanwhile he had not lost sight of the school. He was aware of its condition and its difficulties. He was ambitious to get on in the world, and there was not much glory or fame in being the mere pedagogue of a school for the blind.

But he faced the issue manfully and wrote to the Board of Managers offering his services to the school.
In his letter to the Board he outlined a course of action for enlisting the sympathy and help of the general public, as well as the internal management, financial and otherwise. In concluding his letter to the Board, he offered to take charge, without salary or compensation, until such time as the school would be placed on a solid financial basis.

When he took charge, in 1872, it had but one building, with two teachers and six pupils. To-day there are five elegant brick and stone buildings, erected at a cost of $120,000.
There is a staff of twenty-five teachers and instructors in different departments, ranging from music to kindergarten instruction, and an attendance of pupils from all parts of Eastern Canada, numbering, annually, about 150. Hundreds during the last forty years have graduated from the school and gone forth into the world of business activity. And the school directed and managed by Sir Frederick Fraser is now regarded as second to none of its kind in the world.

In one year from the time Mr.
Fraser took charge there was a great change in the institution. A new force had taken hold of it. Money which had been impossible to get for new buildings, physical training, handicraft instruction, pianos, a library, and many other necessary things began to come in, because the sightless man at the head went after
it. A fund was started to help graduates get positions. The grounds were enlarged and beautified. New buildings were erected. All these meant money and more money—
which was obtained, because the man at the head understood from the Luck.

Luck is that which has made you successful neighbor what he is and has conspired to prevent you from becoming what you would like to be.
 Luck is good or bad, according to whether you are contemplating your neighbor's success or accounting on your own failures.

Luck is a handy little thing to have around, for if it does not benefit you it at least affords you an objective kicking point. Also, the mere mention of its name relieves you of the necessity of making many embarrassing excuses. Luck is a barb which may prevent disaster from poaching on your domains, but if it does not do this you at least have the satisfaction of im-paling upon it all reasons for your defeat.

Luck is perhaps more unlucky than you are.

East Indian Monkeys.

A naturalist who has traveled in the East Indies says: "The effect on the monkeys of man's appearance is most interesting. The expression of their emotions is certainly almost human as they sit and stare at him, coughing and snarling with anger and contempt, drawing back their heads and throwing the hand before the face with a gesture of abhorrence and other movements indicative of shocked and outraged feelings. But predominant is the expression of absolute horror, which, coming from those we consider our still degraded cousins, is to our superiority very aggravating."

Wonderful!

"Just think of it! A whole splendid

"SCRATCHING GRAVEL" PROFITABLE BUSINESS

The whole world seems to be making a dead set against Sam's honorary colonels. According to the London newspapers, there are too many of them on Piccadilly and the Strand giving fine old tawny generals, who have risked their lives in India and other parts of the British Empire, the armache answering their salutes. There is a widespread opinion in London that these tin colonels of Sam's ought to justify their fine feathers by doing a little work at the front.

On top of these criticisms comes the Duff-Meredith report, which puts a crimp in two honorary colonels of Sam's making—naming their names and pointing out their faults in down-right fashion. Honorary Colonel John Wesley Allison is charged with bad faith towards his friend and sponsor, Major General Sir Sam Hughes, and Honorary Colonel David Carnegie is charged with bad judgment in recommending a contract for graze fuses to the American Ammunition Company, when graze fuses could have been made for a dollar less each in Canada. This lapse of judgment on Col. Carnegie's part resulted in $1,666,000 of the people's money being thrown overburdened with work and imply that he was possibly suffering from brain fog when he did it.

As for Sir Sam's friend and super-patriot, Colonel John Wesley Allison, the Commission offers no excuses. They are of the opinion that his left hand knew all along what his right hand was taking, although he didn't tell the Minister of Militia anything about it. Perhaps Colonel Allison didn't think it necessary to tell Sir Sam because he had already received general instructions to "scratch gravel" and if Sir Sam didn't know what scratching gravel meant, he ought to. Incidentally, there was nothing in the evidence to show that Sir Sam was pained or surprised when he learned that his friend was in cahoots with Benjamin Franklin Yoakum to pull down a commission of one million dollars on the American Ammunition Company contract. That indeed was where their "bit" came in. Colonel Allison furnished the influence, Yoakum produced the manufacturer, and that finished their work. As they had to let somebody else make the profit on the fuses, they naturally cashed in on the start.

Very little time seems to have elapsed between Sir Sam's "scratch gravel" order and Colonel Allison's activity in that direction. The Col. had already had some practice scratching gravel where Canadian war contracts were concerned, when he sold Colts revolvers wholesale to the Militia Department for four dollars each more than they could be purchased in small lots by retail dealers.

From the Colts Company Colonel Allison got a friendly present for his general work on their behalf, but his general work was explained as not including anything he had unloaded on Canada. The distinction was, as you will observe, between tweedledum and tweedledee. He did not receive a commission from the Colts people on Canadian business, but he accepted a present for his general work on that behalf. The main value of the incident, no doubt, was to indicate to Colonel Allison that there was plenty of gravel to be scratched in Canada as soon as he cared to get busy. Of course that could not be until Sir Sam lifted the ban. After that the Colonel went ahead fast enough. He soon proved that as a gravel scratcher, he had anyone else between the two oceans backed into a corner and yelling for help.

When Sir Sam gave Colonel John Wesley Allison carte blanche to be as greedy as he liked, it wasn't as if he was coaching somebody who had all to learn about the gravel scratching business. Colonel Allison had already scratched gravel in connection with British, French and Russian war contracts, and knew how to go about it. No sooner did Major General Sam give him the run of Canadian war business than the American Ammunition Company was formed, which netted him $250,000, practically without turning a finger. Benjamin Franklin Yoakum had previously paid him $25,000 to "sit in" and for that sum Colonel Allison allowed him the privilege of doing most of the hard work. What Colonel Allison brought to the transaction was his pull with Sir Sam, who so far as the evidence goes does not seem to have been quite certain as to when Col. Allison ceased to be a disinterested patriot working for sheer love of Sir Sam and the British Empire, and became a gravel scratcher on his own account. Al-for sheer love of Sir Sam and the British Empire, and became a gravel scratcher on his own account. Although Sir Sam had issued a mandate to Colonel Allison to scratch gravel, we are asked to believe that he didn't know when the gravel scratching began.

Sir Sam was, in fact, in a blissful state of ignorance as to his Morrisburg friend's change of heart from gratuitous lover of the British Empire to Wall Street broker out for himself. Canadian manufacturers were being constantly told to "see Allison" and things generally were running along as if Colonel Allison were still operating on the old, unmercenary basis. Of course if the Minister of Militia had known the Canadian manufacturers would not have been told to "see Allison." It would be Allison's business to see them. Colonel Allison, however, seems to have had little desire to do business with Canadians. He preferred to hatch mushroom companies in the United States, where he could watch them closer. Colonel Allison's love for Canada worked out very queerly for this country—he preferred to switch all the business he could to the United States.

Such indeed was Colonel Allison's love for Sir Sam that whenever he could he gave Sir Sam's native land the worst of it. How Sir Sam's heart must bleed when he reads the Commission's report, and finds how his friend threw him down! One can imagine the tears flooding his eyes and waterlogging his copy of the report.

Evidently the Commission thinks that Colonel John Wesley Allison did not play a square game and just as evidently the Militia Department, now under the tutelage of Under Secretary McCurdy, believes that he was guilty of a flank movement for word has issued that Colonel Allison may resign if he likes. Just here arise a number of prickly questions. Does an honorary colonel resign when his honor has been excised by the report of a Royal Commission? If an honorary colonel of Sir Sam's making resigns, does his maker resign with him? In pursuit of his boasted virtue of standing by his friends, does Sir Sam accompany them into oblivion? Sir Sam's hero having been found guilty of grabbing commissions which as a disinterested altruist he was supposed to spurn, is there an oblique reflection on Sir Sam's judgment in the choice of friends?

TWO FRENCH TAKE HUNDRED GERMANS

Paris, Aug. 7th—Corporal Gouteaubier of the French Light Infantry, has been decorated with a military cross by President Poincare for capturing 100 Germans, including two officers, aided only by a single companion. The curt reference to Corporal Gouteaubier's exploit in army orders reads: "For bravery and contempt of danger which struck terror into the trenches and shelter of the enemy. With a single comrade he has made 100 prisoners, including two officers, whom he took to the rear, and then rejoined his post."

When Corporal Gouteaubier was paraded before President Poincare on the recent visit of the latter to the Somme front he told the story of his feat at the request of the president.

It was on July 20th before Hem Wood. The French troops had just dashed forward at the German positions. The first wave had swept over the enemy's trenches and the second had followed to complete the operation. However, from a hollow toward the right a well sustained fusillade was being poured on the flank of the attackers.

TAKEN TO LINES

Gouteaubier, who was at the right wing of the second wave, called out to one man: "Guillot, come with me." The two men approached the spot whence the firing came. They glided from tree to tree until they were close to the shelter, where a German company was holding out. Guillot threw bombs as fast as he could into their midst and the fire ceased. "Burrender" shouted the corporal in a stentorian voice from behind a tree.

In response to his demand 100 Germans emerged from the shelter with uplifted hands, led by two officers. "Pass along this way," shouted Gouteaubier from his hiding place. "Go out of the wood at once and march to the rear." Ten minutes later the 100 Germans, shepherded by the corporal and Guillot, arrived at the French lines.

The prisoners admitted that some of their comrades remained in the shelter. "Come on Guillot, let us go and fetch them," said Gouteaubier. The two men started back, but Guillot fell with a bullet in his breast and the corporal had to abandon his enterprise.

TWO GERMAN SUBS OFF MAINE COAST

PORTLAND, Maine, Aug. 7.—Every point along the Maine coast was being watched sharply to-day and to-night for two submarines, believed to be foreign vessels, and possibly the long-expected German merchantman Bremen and a consort.

The strange vessels were reported five miles off Cross Island, near Machias, and close to Canadian waters to-day by a coast guard lookout, but no word had reached here to-night to bear out the emphatic declaration from that station that they were undersea craft. The vigil along the coast extended as far east as Halifax, N.S., and St. John, N.B., both of which ports reported that British

GERMAN WAR LOSSES PRODIGIOUS

The New York Evening Post recently received from George von Skal, publicity representative in New York of the German Government, a protest against what he spoke of as the exaggeration of German losses in the war, and an invitation to examine and analyze the official reports, which he believed would show that the actual casualties were much below the estimates made by British, French and United States authorities.

The Post accepted the invitation, and after a careful investigation comes to the conclusion that the estimates made by the Allies do not overstate Germany's losses. The method followed by the Post's statistician was simple. The German official list of killed, wounded, and missing up to May 13th contains 12,482 pages. It probably included the bulk of the losses up to about a month prior to the date of publication, although in many instances much more than a month appears to have elapsed between the date of the casualty and the recording of the victim's name.

The Post states that an analysis of Mr. von Skal's list showed that the pages averaged about 275 names. It was found that pages generally contained from 140 to 370 names, arranged in three columns. Very rarely columns were found with but fifteen

1,074 separate casualties were singled out and analyzed. It was found that corrections, which, of course, meant duplication of names previously printed, amounted to 6 per cent., but of this 6 per cent. one-half, or 3 per cent., of the gross total were men previously reported missing or wounded and now reported dead. In other words, but one-half of the corrections made indicated an actual saving in man-power. The subtraction of the entire 6 per cent., or 205,953 corrections, from the gross total of 3,432,550 casualties, reduced the latter to a net total of 3,226,597, which represents the minimum of losses to be figured from the official German lists.

The dead, it is estimated from the same process, numbered 789,485, while 274,504 set down as "missing" and either killed or captured, bring the total loss, apart from the wastage among the wounded, to considerably over a million. The German army has done more hard fighting during the past three months on both the eastern and western fronts than in any previous six months of the war. It is reasonable to assume, therefore, that Germany's losses to date in killed alone are over a million, and that her total losses in killed, wounded and missing have been at least four millions, of whom perhaps two millions of slightly wounded have returned to the front after recovery. A net loss of two million men who have been killed, captured, or severely wounded as to be unfit for further service, represents more than a fourth of the men of military age in the

The Milk Battle

Suggested by FREDERIC S. ISHAM, Author of

"Aladdin From Broadway," Etc.

"IS there a chance for his recovery?" The doctor, who was bending over the side of the wan faced young man in the wheel chair, shook his head slowly as he looked at the young woman who had asked him the question.

"I won't try to deceive you or raise false hopes, which may never be realized, Miss Maxwell. Mr. Larnigan is in a very critical condition. Death may come any day. The best we can do is to hope and pray."

A sturdy, thoughtful man of perhaps thirty-five waved his hand toward her from an automobile, which had drawn up beside the gate.

"Good morning Miss Maxwell. And how is our patient today?"

"About the same, Mr. Harding," said the young woman sadly, as he assisted her to a seat beside him.

Robert Harding, Bruce's lawyer cousin, reached over and patted her arm gently.

"There is one thing that I am going to do, Miss Dorothy, and in which you can give me real assistance. I am going to continue the battle against the graft trust where Bruce left off, and I am going to fight to the death!"

The girl impulsively caught his hand. Harding told the girl that he had induced wealthy philanthropists to finance a milk company that would fight the milk trust.

Six weeks passed—six strenuous weeks on the part of Robert Harding and the newly organized People's Milk

"Good!" echoed Harding, with enthusiasm. "When you have the book let me know."

"I will," the girl promised, and then she caught her breath sharply. Just behind them stood Stanford Stone with a slight smile on his lips.

She felt that Stone was watching her intently as she passed out of the office, and she quickened her pace. But her mind was made up.

"I'll find the book," the girl decided, "and then take father to our home in the mountains. Mr. Harding can come there for it."

This decision made, she lost no time in carrying it out. Her search for the journal of the Fifteen was a short one, as she knew the book was in her father's private desk in the library and had not been removed since his seizure. With the little red covered book in her possession she rushed preparations for their departure to the mountains so hurriedly that by 9 o'clock that evening she and her father were on their way and a note had been sent to Harding telling him where he could reach them.

It was at 10 o'clock the next morning that Dorothy, reading to her father in the cheery living room of their little country home, glanced up to see the figure of Stanford Stone entering the rustic gate of the grounds. She stopped abruptly. The precious book was in the bosom of her dress, but she knew that Stone would stop at nothing, not even physical violence to her, to gain possession of it. Her glance traveled swiftly about the room. On a table lay her father's silk hat. With a quick movement Dorothy caught up the hat and slipped the book into the lining just as Stanford Stone was announced.

Dorothy spoke a few words of careless greeting to him and left him alone with her father. Hardly had the door closed behind her when Stone bounded from his chair and sprang to the side of Mr. Maxwell. There was murder in his eyes.

"Curse you!" he growled. "Where is that book?"

Terror sprang into the eyes of the helpless old man, and then came a fortunate interruption. Voices sounded from outside, and Dorothy and Robert Harding appeared. Stone quickly changed his attitude and was gently stroking Maxwell's hair when the constantly would have passed as a prosperous merchant, but who was now in a plainly disheveled condition.

"My name is Burrows, John Burrows," said the newcomer, advancing and speaking in a thin, nervous voice. "I am the president of the Consolidated Milk Supply company. You are ruining me, Mr. Harding, with your ruinous price reductions in the city milk supply. I have come to ask you what terms you are willing to give and call off your fight."

"Terms!" snapped Harding, clinching his fists. "Do you think that I would stoop to make terms with a man of your type. Burrows? You are one of the miserable, despicable grafters of the Secret Fifteen. You are a man whom every decent citizen should be ashamed to see at liberty. You are one of the men responsible for the condition of poor Bruce Larnigan and for God knows how many more crimes! I shall tear you and yours limb from limb before I am through!"

Impulsively Harding started toward the other, and quickly Burrows turned, with stark terror in his eyes, and ran straight out over the bridge! Dorothy cried out to him to come back, but the man either did not hear or was afraid to stop. On he dashed until suddenly he reached the rotten planks in the center and plunged with a wild shriek through the opening down into the chasm below.

Dorothy sank back into Harding's arms, sobbing piteously, with the doomed man's shriek still ringing in her ears. Another of the Fifteen had paid the penalty of the Larnigan vengeance.

With the death of Burrows came the collapse, final and irrevocable, of the graft trust.

Realizing that they plotted and fought in vain against the energetic crusaders, Bruce and Tom Larnigan and Robert Harding, ably assisted by Dorothy Maxwell, the survivors of the formerly omnipotent Fifteen sought peace.

The terms were imposed by Bruce Larnigan, now happily recovering, and Robert Harding and were ratified by Tom Larnigan, returning from Brazil. These terms were severe, but just. All nefarious interference with the business of the country was stopped immediately. So far as possible restitution was made to the victims of the graft trust from the private fortunes of Stanford Stone, head and front of the graft trust, and his accomplices.

Naturally all this was not accomplished without much toll, for the ramifications of the graft trust's operations had extended far and wide into American life. But it was done, and then Stanford Stone, with a final malediction on the Larnigans and all connected with them, sailed for a long vacation in South America.

Dorothy Maxwell found a loving husband in Bruce Larnigan, and the two devoted themselves to making as comfortable as possible the few remaining years of her stricken father, who had, of course, been compelled to sever all connection with business. And Tom Larnigan, returning triumphantly from South America with much important evidence of smuggling for the government's secret service, was made happy by Kitty Rockford's acceptance of his proposal.

WHEN TO CUT ALFALFA

Watch For the Appearance of Bloom Is the General Rule

The general rule for cutting alfalfa is to watch for the appearance of bloom and cut when at least half the blossoms are out.

Alfalfa will mature several times a season, but to secure the best yields it must be cut when the bloom has ceased and the plant is ready to send up new shoots. This stage usually coincides with the appearance of the first bloom, but it is not best to depend on the appearance of the blossoms alone, as in some seasons these are delayed and the shoots start before the blossoms appear. Experienced alfalfa finance a milk company that would fight the milk trust.

Six weeks passed—six strenuous weeks on the part of Robert Harding and the newly organized People's Milk Supply company. The People's Milk company as a legitimate, sound business enterprise was coming into its own, but it was increasingly plain that the mysterious opposition it was receiving would stop at nothing to put it permanently out of commission. For instance, the prices of the trust began to drop steadily, so steadily, in fact, that from a financial viewpoint it became impossible for Harding and his associates to meet them.

Harding called a hurried meeting of his associates in his private office and the men responded with dubious faces, for the venture had already cost a considerable amount. "Gentlemen," announced Harding, coming to the point without delay, "we are here because we are confronted with a grave crisis in our affairs. Unless we can raise more immediate cash and are prepared to continue our operations for the near future at a loss I fear that we must decide that our project is a failure."

In a short time $150,000 was realized, and Harding was delighted.

He telephoned the good news to Dorothy Maxwell, who received it with tunate interruption. Voices sounded from outside, and Dorothy and Robert Harding appeared. Stone quickly changed his attitude and was gently stroking Maxwell's hair when the couple entered the room.

"I am going to take your father into the grounds for a little air, Miss Dorothy," he said. Catching up Maxwell's hat, to the girl's dismay, he caught the handle of the wheel chair and pushed it ahead of him.

Stone escorted Maxwell to the edge of the grounds without uttering a word, his mouth set in a hard, grim line. A gang of laborers had been at work on a rustic bridge spanning a high gully, at the bottom of which gushed an angry little torrent. Stone pushed Maxwell's chair out on to the edge of the bridge and glanced about him swiftly, debating as to the best method to force speech from the closed lips. A man in overalls was occupied in removing some of the old planks from the center of the bridge preparatory to substituting new and stronger ones. As Stone watched him the man put on his hat and started off whistling, evidently for nails or tools to complete his task, leaving a gaping hole perhaps six feet across.

Hardly was the laborer out of sight when Stone darted toward the opening thus exposed and hastily pulled back into place the old boards, adjusting them in such a way that they would be dislodged with the slightest weight placed upon them. As Stone strolled back to the chair Dorothy and Harding appeared from the house. Stone scowled, and then, turning his back, idly dropped Maxwell's hat over the bridge to determine the distance to the water below and ascertain whether a fall through the rotten timbers of the bridge would be fatal.

"I thought you might like to see Mr. Harding for a few minutes, father, before he goes. But where is your hat? You will catch cold."

"I am afraid, Miss Maxwell, that it is up to me to get your father a new hat," broke in Stanford Stone. "I accidentally knocked it off the bridge."

whirled toward the spot where Stanford Stone had been standing. But he was gone.

Harding was aroused by a voice from the direction of the yard. He turned and saw the figure of a man who ordividence of smuggling for the government's secret service, was made happy by Kitty Rockford's acceptance of his proposal.

"Will you help me to the rescue, Mr. Harding?" asked Dorothy, pointing to the hat and ignoring Stone. Harding followed the direction of her pointing hand, saw the hat on the farther edge of the chasm-like ravine and offered his arm to the girl to help her across the bridge. She accepted with a little smile, and the two stepped on to the planks, while Stone drew back with stolid face. If they reached the middle of the bridge the two would plunge to their deaths through the rotten planks he had arranged.

Stone calmly drew out a cigarette and lighted it. And then he dropped the match with an imprecation. Something had made Dorothy Maxwell pause suddenly, wheel squarely about and stare back at her father.

"There is something on your mind, dad!" cried Dorothy. "There is something you are trying to tell me and cant. Oh, what is it?"

For a horrible moment the lips of Maxwell worked convulsively, but no words came from them.

Again the lips of the paralytic worked with frantic eagerness, and now as the girl bent piteously nearer she heard husky, broken words.

"Don't cross the bridge, daughter—if —you—value—your—life!"

Dorothy sprang to her feet and

PROTECT THE GARDEN.

The old gardener says to look out for frost in spring or autumn when the sunshine is very hot, the shade very cold and the shadows very deep.

This indicates that the air is dry and radiation little checked.

Making a smudge in the garden at night when the frost is expected and spraying the plants thoroughly with water at the same time will help prevent damage to plants.

Beans, corn, cucumber, eggplant, melons, okra, pepper, pumpkins, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes are the vegetables most likely to be damaged by spring frosts.

A little care and work in the evening may save the crop for you.

Deep Cultivation For Potatoes.

Deep cultivation should be ground planted to potatoes plants make their appearance F. S. Merrill, assistant horticulturist in the Kansas State Agricultural Experiment Station, says. This is the deepest cultivation that should be given, as late danger of injuring the roots.

Cultivation should be frequent to keep the weeds down. One of the most effective tools commonly used for this purpose is the weeder. This should be used as often as possible until the plants get high enough to be injured by the teeth of the weeder.

Cultivation should be continued until the vines are large enough, after which cultivation would mean them, points out Mr. Merrill. Last cultivation dirt should be thrown upon the hills to protect them from the sun. If the potatoes are well protected from the sun, the color appears in them, which is poisonous. This affects the taste of the product and produces a bitter taste. If the dirt is well on the hills not only will the tubers be protected, but they will be liberated.

Sudan Grass.

Sudan grass is a sorghum that does not grow quite as rank as the cane sorghum. Being an annual, it must be seeded each year and is well adapted to rotations.

This crop can be sown before planting time and the first crop for its best growth it requires bright weather. If about twenty to twenty-five pounds of seed should be used to the acre.

Sudan grass can stand cold drought. It is not very good for hay. It makes such a head as to cut off sun and moisture, the crop it is to foster.

Dorothy Received the News With a Thoughtful Face.

a thoughtful face. For a few moments she paced the floor of her room nervously. She knew in her own mind that the milk trust was one of the branches of that sinister organization known as The Fifteen, of which her father, as head of the insurance trust, at one time had been a member. How could she use this fact to the advantage of Harding? She debated the question anxiously. Finally she called for her car, determined to drive to the office of the Independent, the newspaper which Bruce Larnigan controlled in the interests of his battles for the people.

Almost the first person she met in the editorial office was Robert Harding, who hurried toward her eagerly.

"I think I have found a way to help you," she said impulsively. "I have remembered that father has at home a book with the names of the members of The Fifteen and their secret by-words, minutes, and so on. That book ought to let us know who the mysterious head of the milk trust is. We can then force him to come out into the open."

"Curse you!" he growled. "Where is that book?"

THE "LAND POOR" FARMER.

Farms Are Often Either Too Small or Too Large For Success.

The size of the business often has much to do toward making the farm profitable. Department of agriculture farm management records show that farms are often either too small or too large for the most successful farming. There may be too few as well as too many acres. A man may not have enough land or he may be "land poor," thereby rendering all his acres unprofitable.

A certain farmer with a large family was deeply in debt. His farm consisted of 120 acres, half of which was under the plow. The remainder was woodland and expensive to clear. For twelve years the farmer had not been quite able to meet his interest. To him the whole farm consisted of unprofitable acres. He finally decided that the farm was too small for the most efficient use of the labor available. Having an opportunity, he bought an adjoining eighty acres of cleared land, going in debt the full amount. From that time on the farm was prosperous, and in ten years the entire farm was paid for and enough additional money saved to build a good house and barn. The smaller farm had been unprofitable because the overhead expenses were too high for so small a business. In this case acres were made profitable by increasing their number.

Another poor farmer owned three quarter sections of land. His farm was quite heavily mortgaged, and for a number of years he had not been able to pay interest in full. His family was small, and for most of the work he had to depend on hired help. He concluded that under the circumstances he was working or trying to work too many acres. Finally he sold one quarter sec-

ALBERTA DAIRYING.

Co-operation, Grass Lands and Natural Gas Contribute to Supremacy

It has frequently been stated that "it will not be many years before Alberta will be the greatest dairying Province in Canada." Her rich soil produces a wonderful yield of grain and roots, with succulent grasses in abundance. The Government and the railroads have also contrived to assist the industry. But by methods diametrically opposite. Possibly the greed of the latter has been a greater factor than is seen at first glance. Freight rates on grain from Alberta are so very high that it doubly pays the farmer to manufacture his grain into butter and meat. Recently the market reports on the same day showed the price of oats and barley as follows: Toronto, 52c to 56c; Winnipeg, 47c to 60c; Edmonton, 30c to 42c per bushel. Prices for these two cereals average at all times thirty to forty per cent. lower throughout Alberta than in Winnipeg or Toronto. On the other hand, prices received by the Alberta farmer for his butter are invariably higher than in eastern Canada. Possibly the secret of the good prices for butter is fully explained other duck, being disposed to run rather than fly, and to make good business of the former means of locomotion. The fowls are of small size, the drakes weighing from four and a half to five pounds, and the ducks about four pounds. In color they are fawn and white, and the fanciers desire the fawn to be a clear, even color without penciling. Recently pure white ones have been advertised, but the beautiful marking of the fawn and white is much more pleasing. The legs and feet are bright yellow and the bill green. The body is long and slender. They grow very quickly, being full grown at the age of ten weeks if properly fed. They are hardy, and easy to raise, requiring no water for swimming purposes and no high fences to prevent their flying. As layers, both for quantity and quality, the Indian Runners are not equaled by any other breed of ducks, and their laying season starts early in life, some early hatched and well-fed specimens having been known to start at four and a half months of age. With this breed a plentiful supply of green food is necessary for the best results in laying and growth, while a meat course affects them favorably, as it does chickens. Finally he sold one quarter section and paid his debts. Seven years later he had $5,000 in the bank. In this case all the acres had previously been unprofitable because there were too many of them.

The "Bill Pick."

The implements used in putting a corn crop into the ground vary with the locality and the amount of labor and its cheapness. Where the crop or the farm is very small hand planting methods much like the old row by row dropping and hoe covering are adopted. "Bill picks" or hand corn planters are one of the implement types used where labor is very cheap and the crop is not extensive. These implements are rarely seen in the corn belt, though they are very handy for replanting.—Farm Progress.

BITS OF FARM WISDOM.

To prevent your apples and grapes from rotting spray them with bordeaux mixture.

Do not fail to set a few rows of late tomatoes. If gathered just before frost and wrapped in paper the green fruit will keep until Christmas or later and ripen well.

If cauliflower is to thrive it must be planted on moist, well drained, fertile soil.

In the case of young fruit trees planted about the home grounds, where they cannot be cultivated, keep the soil stirred about them with a hoe or place around them a heavy mulch of straw or stable manure.

Hoe the weeds out of the corner of the garden before they develop seed, and you will lessen the number of weeds that will come up next year.

Learn to know our ladybug friends and give them a chance to multiply as much as possible. There are a number of varieties of ladybugs, and all of them make war on other harmful bugs, particularly plant lice of various kinds.

Her Castle.

peg or Toronto. On the other hand, prices received by the Alberta farmer for his butter are invariably higher than in eastern Canada.

Possibly the secret of the good prices for butter is fully explained in the one word—"co-operation." The Government of Alberta, through a Dairy Commissioner, after a thorough system of grading, markets the butter under its seal of quality. The system has proved wonderfully successful and has given tremendous impetus to dairying, assuring lucrative returns to the patrons of the co-operative creameries throughout the Province.

As in every Province for one cause or another, there are some parts of Alberta more favorable than the rest for dairying. One of these particularly favorable parts is the district surrounding the town of Viking, which lies eighty miles east of Edmonton on the G. T. P. Transcontinental. Besides endowing this district with the richest of soils which yields the most nutritive forage crops, a rolling plain with park and dale giving natural shelter and splendid water to the cattle, nature has constructed some 2,000 feet beneath the surface of the land an immense reservoir of natural gas, which when tapped gives abundance of heat and power. This gas is the purest that nature makes. A cubic foot of it gives more heat than nearly two feet of manufactured gas. Think of getting such a high quality gas at from ten cents to twenty cents per thousand cubic feet. It is cheaper than the best coal at $2 per ton, and as for power the lowest price paid for Hydro-Electric by dairymen in Ontario is about twice as much as his brother dairymen would pay at Viking. And every dairymen knows what it means to have abundance of cheap heat and power available in such a convenient form as gas.

A Great Egg Layer.

Until recent years duck eggs were not considered of much value except for hatching, but with the advent of the Indian Runner the value of these eggs as food and the palatability of the eggs of the breed have become factors of importance in encouraging poultrymen to keep ducks for the sake of their eggs for eating.

The name Indian Runner is well deserved by the birds of this breed, as India is their native home, and as runners they differ entirely from any with this breed a plentiful supply of green food is necessary for the best results in laying and growth, while a meat course affects them favorably, as it does chickens.

The great success that is general in attempts to raise this breed of ducks, their hardiness, good laying qualities and the unusual fertility of their egg has made Indian Runners popular where ducks were formerly not thought of at all, and in many instances they have replaced chickens where one or other had to be done without.

A New Cheese Country.

The production of cheese in East Griqualand, which was favorably commented on by the Government expert last year, has made a considerable advance. It is expected that the output this year will be more than double that of last year.

Feeding Young Pigs.

When pigs are three weeks old and have learned to eat, it is well to give them access to another pen in which a small trough is kept.

Friends of the Silo.

The fact that all farmers who have tried the silo are unanimous in its praise would seem to form the best possible recommendation for its use.

Mill Feeds.

Mill feeds are always cheapest about harvest time. Many dollars can be saved by co-operative buying at that time.

Hog Pens.

A wet pen will make a lame hog.

The Phrase "Mere Man."

In his book, "The Pulse of the World: Fleet Street Memories," Malcolm Stark gives what he believes is the origin of the expression "mere man." A Scottish doctor, he says, wrote as follows:

The earliest use of the phrase known to me is in the shorter catechism, where it is said, "No mere man since the fall is able in this life perfectly to keep the commandments." The phrase caught on in Scotland and was probably brought to England shortly after the union. The only difficulty in the way of this theory is that it allows barely two centuries for the English mind to see the joke.

This last sentence is indeed carrying the war into the enemy's camp.

THE MOUSE IN THE TRAP.

Wonderful Fortune That Came to a Kind Hearted Lad—Many Things of Interest For Young People—A Boy and His Dog Sandy.

Night was falling when Polly Ann and little Ned settled down to hear Uncle Ben's good night story. It was about

AN ENCHANTED PRINCESS.

Once there lived a poor woodcutter and his wife in the middle of the forest. He had three sons called Edward, George and Albert. The two eldest were thoughtless, but good natured.

One day Edward, the eldest, said to his father, "I am going out to make my fortune, father, and when I have made it I will come back."

His father let him go sadly. On the way Edward passed a trap with a poor little mouse in it, but as he was so thoughtless he did not think of letting it out.

A few days after George set out to make his fortune. He, too, passed the mouse, but did not let it out.

After that Albert left home to make his fortune, but when he came to the trap he went up and let the poor little mouse out. Instantly it became a beautiful princess.

"Thank you, dear Albert," she said to the astonished boy. "A wicked witch turned me into a mouse, but will you come and set my castle free?"

Albert said "Yes" gladly. So he followed her, and at last they came to a grand castle. When they went in nobody was there.

Then the princess said: "Tonight you will be tortured by invisible beings. You will see only their hands and feet, but don't say a word, and in the morning I will come. This will happen for three nights, but on the third day the castle will be yours."

That night when Albert was reading ten pairs of hands and feet appeared and pulled his hair, pinched and kicked him and tore his book to pieces, but he never said a word. Next morning the princess came, and with her came a hundred attendants, whom he had made free by his watching. That night the same happened, and in the morning the princess came with 200 servants now. The third night passed, and still he did not speak, and in the morning the princess came with 300 servants and embraced him. She showed him all the cellars full of gold.

A few days after they were married, and after that Prince Albert went to his father's home to bring him to his castle. The brothers had come back penniless through their thoughtlessness. They all went to the castle, and the mother and father lived with Princess Marion and Prince Albert. The brothers married the sisters of Marion, who also had castles. They all lived to a good old age.

To Get at Fertilizers.

New regulations have been established by the Government to cover prospecting for salts of potassium in the region of the Peace, Athabasca, and Mackenzie Rivers.

It has been represented to the Interior Department that there is a strong possibility of discovering such minerals in this district and, owing to the great demand for them for fertilizing purposes, and the fact that the present production is quite insufficient to satisfy the world's requirements, it has been considered advisable to make more favorable regulations. Prospecting for such minerals involves considerable expenditure and it has accordingly been provided that in the four Western Provinces and the North-West Territories rights to such minerals may be leased at a rental of 25 cents per acre for the first year and 50 cents per acre for the second year.

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING.

It Has Proven a Great Success in Hastings County.

In the township of Rawdon, in the county of Hastings, the seed of farm co-operation has fallen on fertile soil.

There are four farmers' clubs in the township—Minto, Anson, Springbrook, and Marmora. These clubs both sell and buy co-operatively.

As the members of the clubs are all engaged in dairying in a large way they also produce large numbers of hogs, which form a natural sideline for dairying, and the hogs produced form the principal item in the co-operative selling carried on.

The selling is managed by a regular salesman, assisted by Mr. B. C. Tucker, Secretary of the Minto Club, and a committee appointed for the purpose. When a member of one of the clubs has a bunch of hogs ready for shipment he notifies Mr. Tucker, or a member of the committee, and the one notified telephones the information to the salesman. When there is a carload in sight, the salesman calls upon the parties having hogs ready to bring them in, and at the same time asks packing houses in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, and Hull to bid on what he has to offer. In fact the packers frequently phone first to know what the clubs have ready for sale.

"At one time," said Mr. Tucker, "the packers told us the price that was ruling for the week and we could take it or leave it. That is no longer the case. We have a say in the price now, and the packers have to come to what we consider a fair figure. Our reputation is so well established that buyers know what sort of stuff we have to offer, and they bid us so much on board at shipping point. We have a credit at the bank, and when each member brings in his hogs he is paid for them by check at the price the packer has bid, less 85 cents per 100 pounds. The 85 cents is deducted to cover shrinkage in carriage. This usually more than covers shrinkage, and the balance left over is either applied to our reserve fund or divided in surplus profits among those supplying hogs as the occasion calls for. We are 120 miles from Toronto, and the average shrinkage in shipping to that point in spring and fall pounds per hundredweight Montreal six or seven 1 hot weather the shrinkage heavier.

"No," said Mr. Tucker, a question, "It has not a sailing with us. When operations local drovers put us out of business higher prices than the wanted. We had to make petition, and in doing so $300 in the hole. But we have the field to cut and instead of a debit have a surplus of about amount. While piling plus we have secured go our members. In the May 27th we procured $10.75 on board cars, over manager's fees, etc., as for shrinkage. We usually a week, and on one day as many as five cars ment."

The price received operative shippers in the last month was from cents above the "cow prices quoted for the sale."

The salesman who is employed so much for each calf handled. For hogs 10 cents each, for cows less for smaller animals.

Blowing Flowers

When amateurs speak "blowing" they are not vulgarism. They are speaking old English. In the early verb "blowen" was used the opening of flowers. "blow" being a corruption it is the other way about comes from the same root.

We do not grow the flowers nowadays, but our great store by the sort is eagerly in the streets from gers."

From costard monger to er is a short step. Hawth's interest. The old form haga, which means hedge is therefore simply hedge don Graphic.

PULP FOR PAPER.

It Is Now Mainly Obtained From Wood and Vegetable Fibers.

Paper derives its name from the fact that it was originally made by the Egyptians from papyrus, a rushlike plant formerly common in Egypt along the Nile. Today paper is largely made from vegetable fibers and cellulose.

When it was found that the fibers of the cotton and flax plants were best adapted for making paper and the uses of paper were few the ragman did a flourishing business in buying old rags to keep the paper manufacturers supplied with raw material. The rags were first allowed to rot to remove the substances incrusting the cellulose and were then beaten into a pulp to which water was added. The pulp was then placed in a sieve and drained and subjected to heavy pressure which united the fibers and produced paper. By the modern method the rags are boiled with caustic soda, which separates the cellulose fibers, and placed in a machine in which rollers set with knives tear the rags to pieces and mix them with water to make a pulp. This pulp is bleached with chloride of lime and mixed with alum and a kind of soap to give a smooth surface.

The way man's discoveries operate to supply his needs in the progress of civilization is notably illustrated in the production of paper. Under the old method the big supply required today for newspapers and other uses could not have been produced.

The discovery that pulp could be made from the trunks and limbs of trees came to the rescue. It was found that by boiling wood shavings in strong solutions of caustic soda in receptacles that would withstand very high pressure the wood fibers were separated and a very good quality of cellulose for paper manufacture produced. As a result of this discovery paper today is mostly made of wood.

Twelve Words.

Some years ago the circulation department of a London newspaper offered a prize for the longest sixpenny—twelve word—telegram that could actually be sent to its office. This won:

"Administrator general's counter-revolutionary intercommunications un-circumstantiated. Quartermaster general's disproportionableness characteristically counterdistinguished unconstitutionalistic incomprehensibilities."

These twelve words contain exactly 200 letters, and the telegram needs two periods, two apostrophes and one hyphen to make it proper English. And it does not contain the longest possibility in the language, "proantitransubstantiationistically," either.

How Portuguese Entered Africa.

Portuguese Africa was a byproduct of the long efforts to discover and maintain a maritime route to India, independent of the services of Turks and Moors as commercial intermediaries. This was the primary object alike of Prince Henry the Navigator, of Vasco da Gama and of all the Portuguese explorers and colonizers, and the Portuguese empire in Africa east and west, the colonization of Brazil, the conquest of Mexico and the 16,000 PRISONERS TAKEN.

Week of Allied Offensive Has Shown Splendid Results.

PARIS, July 11.—The French official report says: "The operations on the Somme front from July 1 to 7 resulted in the capture by us of more than 9,500 prisoners. Among the important war materials that we took we counted up Sunday 75 cannon and several hundred machine guns.

A Reuter correspondent sends this despatch, dated Saturday, at the press camp of the British army:

"It being a week ago to-day since the British offensive developed, the occasion is opportune to review the progress made. We have pushed in the German salient between Albert and the Somme to an extreme depth at the point of our greatest advance of about three miles. We hold the villages of Montauban, Fricourt, and Mametz, and are well across the fringe of Contalmaison. At various intervening points of tactical importance our line is firmly established.

"We have taken upward of 6,000 prisoners, 21 guns, 51 machine guns, a large number of automatic rifles, trench mortars, minenwerfers, search lights, and other military booty.

"The enemy is known to have suffered terrible losses. For example, the third division of the Prussian Guard, brought up as reinforcements, has been so depleted that the remnants of the corps have been withdrawn as no longer war-worthy for the time. Prisoners say that the morale of these guards is badly shaken, this applying equally to the officers.

"The heavy rains of the last two days have much impeded the operations. Nevertheless, our troops have been fighting incessantly, and in many spots have made substantial gains. The spirit of the men is wonderful. They fully realize they are now playing the part of the top dog.

"As proof of their dash it may be mentioned that in their advances there are practically no stragglers, so eager are all to get to their goal. This, under the heavy conditions of trench warfare, with no man's land often like a quagmire, is truly wonderful. There is every reason to be satisfied alike with the progress and prospects."

Fond of His Dog.

It is plain to be seen that the little boy in the picture is fond of his dog. Most young folks like pets and usually treat them kindly, or mean to at any rate. But sometimes they forget, and the little beast or bird suffers be-

WRITTEN IN GOLD.

Codex Aureus, the Most Wonderful of All Prized Bibles.

You are wont to think of the Bible as the King James version, with which you have been familiar from your childhood. Do you know what the bibliophile regards as the most wonderful Bible in the world?

It is known as the Codex Aureus, or golden codex, because the lettering is all laid on the parchment in pure gold. It is of value for a totally different reason, however. It is written in the Gothic tongue, and a notation on it which bears the date 840 A. D. calls it an ancient manuscript, even at that time. It consists of large portions of the four gospels and is of the greatest value to scholars because it has preserved so much of that long dead language.

A much more spectacular copy of the Scriptures is the one that is known as the "devil's Bible," one of the famous things to see in the city of Stockholm, Sweden. It rests on a large table in the Royal library, and it is a remarkable work of art.

Its origin is enshrouded in traditions, no two of which agree in the least. It was brought to Sweden from a convent in Bohemia as a part of the loot after the thirty years' war and was probably the life work of dozens of consecrated monks. It is not on ordinary parchment, but the lettering was applied on the secretly treated skins of 300 asses, and the process of treating the skins is a lost art. The frontispiece looks like the portrait of the devil; hence the name.

A Secret Divulged.

"Papa," said the hopeful youth, "can you tell me what is natural philosophy?"

"Of course I can," said papa, proud and relieved to find that there was at last something he could tell his offspring. "Natural philosophy is the science of cause and reason. Now, for instance, you see the steam coming out of the spout of the kettle, but you don't know why or for what reason it does so, and"

"Oh, but I do, papa," chirped the hope of the household. "The reason the steam comes out of the kettle is so that mamma may open your letters without you knowing it."—Exchange.

Helping the Illusion.

The young lady from town was spending a week end in the country, and she discoursed glowingly to the buxom landlady of the rustic inn on the delight that real country butter and real new laid eggs gave to a jaded Londoner.

Her faith in country produce was destined, however, to be rudely shaken, for, on coming down to breakfast next morning, she was greatly shocked to overhear the good landlady say to her spouse:

"The lady from Lunnon's mighty keen on fresh eggs, John. Run and get half a dozen from the grocer's while I go out in the yard and cackle."—London Answers.

Portuguese explorers and colonizers, and the Portuguese empire in Africa east and west, the colonization of Brazil, the conquest of Mexico and the navigation of the strait of Magellan were incidental results. The fascination of India has been second to nothing in its effects upon the map. It drew Columbus to America and England to South Africa.—London Mail.

A Stubborn Husband.

A most interesting phenomenon is the stubborn husband. He is not a bad man. He is contrary, and he has to be managed. He is usually married to a clever little woman, who is constantly devising schemes to accomplish the things which make their joint lives a success.

He has no suspicion of this. If he had he would be so mad he could undoubtedly eat her. So all through life she goes on swinging a turnip ahead of his nose to make him go the same as though he were a balky mule. She is a cheery little body, and she chuckles in her sleeve when he is not by. The stubborn husband is as interesting as a bug.—London Standard.

Lore of the Clover.

Any one who carries about a four leaved clover will be lucky and will have the power of discovering ghosts or evil spirits. With it under the pillow the lover may insure dreams of the beloved one. A fragment in the shoe of a traveler insures a safe journey. The power of the four leaved shamrock for good is familiar to all from Lover's pretty and once popular song, the speaker in which pictures what she would do should she find the magic plant:

I would play the enchanter's part and scatter bliss around,
And not a tear or aching heart should in the world be found.

—London Globe.

Tomb of Noah.

The tomb of Noah is supposed to lie in the small town of Nakhchevan, on the plain of Ararat. The burial place is at the side of the broken walls of an abandoned fortress in the midst of a vast plain which is literally covered with the remains of bygone glories.

Their Relation.

"Those two mean brothers in the firm who argue you down to the last cent are twins, are they not?"

"Yes; twin screws."

Cottage Bedspread.

Nothing is more appropriate for the summer cottage than a bedspread decorated with colonial applique embroidery, which is nothing more or less than patchwork in a glorified state. Unbleached muslin is used for the spread, and it is bound with an inch and a half border of blue chambray. A design in vines and flowers is cleverly carried out, with blue and yellow chambray for the flowers and green for the vines. A long sham to cover both pillows may be worked out in the same manner.

The Laugh That Failed.

"Laugh, and the world laughs with you," quoted the humorist with the unbarbered hair, as he handed the editor an alleged joke of the Joe Miller rintage.

"Yes," replied the editor. Then, after glancing over it, he handed it back with the comment, "But this is no laughing matter, I'm sorry to say."

Whereupon the man of humor, with head bowed down, wandered slowly hence into the unexplored hither.

His Big Loaf.

"How is Robert getting on at college?" asked the minister, who was being entertained at dinner.

"Splendidly," said the proud father, who then went on to tell of his son's various social, athletic and scholastic successes, and the minister said it was a fine thing to be college bred. That evening little James, who had been an interested listener, said, "Papa, what did Mr. Brown mean by college bred?"

"Oh, that," said papa, who had been looking over his son's bills, "is a four years' loaf!"—Exchange.

Food Values.

"The 'thriftest' thing under my roof," says a writer in the American Magazine, "is the United States department of agriculture's famous bulletin 28, 'The Chemical Composition of American Food Materials.' It cost me 5 cents, and it saves me 85 every month. It gives a list of all the foods that any American housekeeper is ever likely to put on her table, with the proportion of starch, sugar, fat, water and the rest in each, and, what is more important, the precise amount of nutriment in one pound."

The Proud Beggar.

"I should think a big healthy man such as you would be too proud to beg."

"I am, lady, I am. And when I approached you I said to myself there is a sympathetic, high minded woman who will instantly hearken to an unfortunate man's request and not humiliate him by forcing him to beg for the assistance he so sorely needs."

Another Adage Smashed.

"I never put off till tomorrow what I can do today," remarked the self complacent man.

"I tried that plan," rejoined the willing worker. "I got to crowding myself till I had to put in nights doing over what I had done badly the day before."

Dog Carts in Holland.

Residents of Bunschoten, Holland, make use of the little carts drawn by dogs, which are to be seen in very many parts of the Netherlands, and have a fine breed of tall, yellow, smooth haired dogs, which they sometimes harness three abreast.

OBITUARY.

Nancy Grange, relict of the late Samuel McLean Detlor, died at the residence of her son, George H. Detlor, London, on Monday, August 7th, 1916, aged 82 years, 6 months.

Women's Patriotic Service and Red Cross Work

Through the "U. E. Loyalist" Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Letters have just come to hand from Lieut. Mary Plummer, of the Canadian Field Comforts Commission at Shorncliffe, England, acknowledging the safe arrival of a splendid case of comforts for the Commission. Miss Plummer expresses her very grateful thanks for this fine and most welcome addition to their supplies, particularly for the donation of socks, which in this case numbered 126 pairs, all hand-knitted, for she says these always are needed, and are so much appreciated.

On a previous occasion the attention of our workers has been called to the fact that the supply of socks is running low, possibly owing to the extreme heat to which we have been subjected. However, the worst is now probably over, and it is hoped our knitters will be able to turn in the usual splendid supply.

All will be glad to learn that Mrs.
Stover, of Violet, one of our veteran knitters, is starting her autumn knitting of socks for us again, for she has done splendid work for us in the past.

We are much indebted to Mrs. Kilpatrick, of Napanee, who has continued her knitting throughout the hot summer weather, and has sent us
many pairs of her beautiful socks, which we are sure have been equally appreciated overseas.

This week a box of specially selected supplies has been shipped to the I.O.
D.E. hospital for officers, in London,
England, of which Miss Vivienne
